23 Dead In Irish Blasts

DUBLIN, Ireland (AP) — "There were limbs, pieces of clothing and bodies everywhere," sobbed an eyewitness after three powerful car bombs ripped through the heart of Dublin.

According to the latest police count, 23 men, women and children were killed and 150 wounded in the rush hour bombings Friday night, the worst bombing incident in almost five years of the sectarian war that has hit the Irish Republic as well as Northern Ireland.

Five more persons died in a bomb blast in the border town of Monaghan and at least 20 were injured.

"There were bodies and blood everywhere," said American attorney Francis P. McQuade of Maplewood, N.J., who arrived in Dublin only half an hour before the blasts. "A little girl who had been looking in a store window when the bomb went off was blown right through it."

Police warned that more bombs may be on the way.

Police sources suspected the bombers were Protestant fanatics from the north. The bombs were planted in cars hijacked earlier in the day from a Protestant stronghold in Belfast, the Northern Ireland capital.

The Ulster Defense Association, a militant Protestant group, and the predominantly Roman Catholic Irish Republican Army denied any involvement with the bombings.

A man, calling himself "Capt. Craig of the Red Hand Brigade," telephoned a Dublin newspaper late Friday to warn that more bombs will be planted in the city in the next few days.

The "Red Hand of Ulster" is a traditional Protestant symbol.

The caller said the bombings will continue "until something is done about Sunningdale"—the pact signed last December by Britain, the Irish Republic and Northern Ireland.

The agreement, providing for a Council of Ireland with representatives from the north and south, is viewed by many northern Protestants as a sellout that will end in a unification of Ulster with the Catholic republic.

Irish Prime Minister Liam Cosgrave, his voice shaking with emotion, told a stunned nation in a radio and television broadcast that the slaughter was "Ireland's moment of greatest tragedy."

He said the explosions would bring home to the people of the republic what their northern neighbors had been suffering for the past five years.

In the only three previous bomb attacks on Dublin in the past five years, a total of three persons were killed. The Dublin bombings coincided with a general strike in Northern Ireland, where militant Protestants opposed to the agreement have brought normal life to a halt.

Britain's Northern Ireland secretary, Merlyn Rees, said it would be "foolish" to deny press reports that British troops may be used to keep essential services operating, such as electricity, water and sewage.

Boyle Count Dismissed By Court

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Federal conspiracy charges, lodged against former United Mine Workers President W.A. "Tony" Boyle in connection with the 1969 Yablonski family slayings, have been dismissed at the request of the government.

U.S. District Court Judge Gerald Weber granted the dismissal Friday. The federal charges accused Boyle of violating the civil rights of UMW rival Joseph Yablonski by ordering his assassination.

Last month, Boyle was convicted on three state counts of first-degree murder in the shootings of Yablonski, his wife and his daughter. The conviction carries a mandatory life sentence, although Boyle, 72, is seeking a new trial.

Special Prosecutor Richard A. Sprague, who secured convictions or guilty pleas for all nine defendants charged in the Yablonski case, requested the dismissal of federal charges against Boyle following the murder trial.

The U.S. Attorney's office subsequently moved for the dismissal. "It was not considered in the interest of law enforcement to have him convicted of these charges," a spokesman for the federal prosecutor said.

SLA Shootout Leaves 5 Dead

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Police are trying to identify the charred bodies of five persons removed from a suspected Symbionese Liberation Army hideout following a blazing hour-long gun battle between officers and its occupants.

A spokesman for newspaper executive Randolph A. Hearst said the FBI told Hearst one of the dead was SLA leader Donald D. DeFreeze. But the FBI in both Los Angeles and San Francisco denied that agents had identified DeFreeze — alias SLA General Field Marshal Cinque. It also denied telling Hearst any such thing.

The SLA claims it kidnapped Hearst's daughter, Patricia, in Berkeley last Feb. 4. She since has renounced her family and said she had joined the terrorist organization, although authorities say her statements may have been coerced.

John Lester, the Hearst spokesman, told reporters of DeFreeze's reported death late Friday outside the Hearst mansion in Hillsborough, south of San Francisco. But he walked away without a word when reporters shouted, "What about Patty? What about Patty?"

Earlier Lester had said, "We just hope to God that Patty is somewhere else." It had been feared that Miss Hearst may have been one of three white women seen by a neighbor before the shootout. The frame house burned to the ground after catching fire in the gun battle.

Police said they saw two women's bodies — one white and one black — lying in a hallway as the house burned. Ammunition belts on their bodies exploded in the fire's heat.

Three other bodies were found underneath the house near air vents to the outside.

Authorities said they were unable to positively identify any of the bodies because they were so badly disfigured. "It was a war, no other way to describe it," said police commander Peter Hagen after officers attacked the house, firing volley after volley of tear gas, shotgun and M16 rifle rounds.

They were met with heavy return fire some of it thought to be from .50-caliber machine guns. Tear gas grenades apparently sparked the fire that burned the house.

A flak-jacketed officer with a gas mask said, "It was just like Vietnam." The battle, which was televised live on Los Angeles stations, followed a raid

Trucker Vote Set Sunday On Shutdown

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Independent truckers across the nation are watching Ohio closely for the outcome of a vote scheduled Sunday on whether owner-operators in the state will join the shutdown.

One woman representing Cincinnati-area truckers told driver representatives Friday, "If you're all waiting for them to go, I think you're going to be very happy."

Independent trucker representatives from 15 states were urged to continue their shutdown at least through the weekend, during a conference call arranged by Overdrive Magazine of Los Angeles.

Overdrive and its Editor, Mike Parkhurst, are leading the way in the latest independent trucker shutdown effort. Drivers complain that rising fuel costs are forcing them out of business.

Parkhurst spoke to 250 independent truckers at a Franklin, Ohio rally Thursday. Drivers voted to join the protest, but decided to try for a stronger mandate Sunday before taking action.

About 1,000 drivers are expected to attend the gathering in Middletown.

Overdrive spokesman Arnold Tipton, who conducted the call, said it was arranged to determine shutdown effectiveness and inform the media of strike progress.

The independent truckers representatives complained of increasing violence and driver frustration.

Bob Lane, calling from Morrisville, Pa., said drivers in his area are getting anxious for Ohio and Kentucky to join the protest in force.

Ken Carter, speaking from southeast Missouri said drivers in his area were "waiting for this Ohio thing to come through." He said truckers staying on the road have been subjected to harassment.

"We've got a little Vietnam down here," he said.

earlier in the day at another suspected SLA hideout. But the house was found to be empty.

A woman who emerged from the house after it caught fire said there were five other persons inside — a black man, a black woman and three white women.

"They held me, they held me," the woman was heard to say as she was taken away to an ambulance. She was not identified and appeared to have suffered gunshot wounds.

Mary Carr, 52, told police her daughter lived in the house and allowed five persons who arrived at 2 a.m. Friday to spend the night after they offered to pay $100.

Mrs. Carr said she went to the house Friday.

"A white lady had a belt on with a pistol...she slapped at the pistol and smiled up at me," Mrs. Carr said.

Mrs. Carr said she left and notified police. Police reported later two vans that may have been used by the SLA members were discovered parked nearby.

It was not known if Mrs. Carr's daughter, Minnie Lewis, 33, was the woman who ran from the house.

Officers with lights poked through the debris through the night, finding a few handguns, a shotgun and small pipe-bombs.

Shooting from inside the house continued even as it was engulfed in flames. The firing ceased after the walls collapsed.

One policeman was at first reported to have a leg wound, but officers later said he apparently fell off a roof.

Before the raid, the FBI alerted police agencies in Washington state to be on the lookout for a car possibly carrying Miss Hearst and SLA members. Early today the alert still stood.

The raid followed a hunt for three suspected SLA members who fled after a shootout at a sporting goods store in nearby Inglewood Thursday night.

The two white women and a white man identified themselves as SLA members as they commandeered vehicles to make their escape.

A clerk at the store later identified the man from pictures as William Taylor Harris, 29, and police said one of the women was probably his wife, Emily, 27. Both are said by authorities to be founding members of the SLA, which has been described as a heavily armed, multiracial group of about 25 persons.

A woman in a van fired 27 carbine shots at the store front, and a clerk fired three shots as the trio fled in the van, police said. No one was hit.

The trio later abandoned the van and stole three vehicles. They told one of the drivers, "We're from the SLA. We need your car," authorities said.

The trio kidnapped one of the drivers, Thomas D. Matthews, 18, and drove him in his van to a drive-in theatre. Matthews said they apparently planned to meet someone there.

Matthews said he was treated cordially and given food and drink. Later he identified Mrs. Harris as one of his abductors, police said.

He said the trio drove about 15 miles, then left him in the van under a blanket after they apparently commandeered a car.

India Joins Atomic Club

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — India has set off its first nuclear explosion in an underground test, the Indian Atomic Energy Commission announced today. The blast brought the world's largest democracy into the world "nuclear club" heretofore reserved to the major military powers.

The announcement, which did not specify when the explosion occurred, said the bomb was designed for such peaceful purposes as mining and earth-moving. It said India has no intention of producing nuclear weapons.

But the test indicated India may be able to build such weapons in the future if it chooses to do so.

The only nations that now are known to have nuclear weapons are the United States, the Soviet Union, Britain, France and China.

The Indian announcement said the test blast was conducted at a depth of 100 meters — about 328 feet. It did not say where the test took place or give the size of the bomb.

Experts had long suspected that India was on the verge of a nuclear bomb capacity. The consultative committee of the Indian Parliament charged with atomic energy matters was advised last year that Prime Minister Indira Gandhi's government was conducting experiments in the field.

But today's announcement was the first public indication that India had the ability to build and explode a bomb.

Mrs. Gandhi's government has strongly criticized atmospheric nuclear tests, particularly those conducted by China since it joined the nuclear powers in 1964. But India, like France, has refused to sign the nuclear non-proliferation treaty of July 1, 1968.

That pact was pushed by the United States in an effort to prevent the spread of nuclear weapons.

Mrs. Gandhi contended it also had the effect of sealing the nuclear superiority of the United States and of the Soviet Union, which was among 94 countries that signed the pact.

India opened its first atomic power station in January 1970 with American assistance.

North Vietnamese Grab 3 Outposts

BEN CAT, South Vietnam (AP) — North Vietnamese infantry, backed by at least five tanks, overran three government outposts, seized a nearby village and threatened this strategic district town only 25 miles south of Saigon, South Vietnamese field officers said today.

The village that was overrun was An Dien, about half a mile west of Ben Cat. Thousands of civilians caught up in the fighting were seen fleeing southward along highway 13 from Ben Cat and surrounding villages to Phu Cuong, 10 miles away. A Dien's population was 2,000.

The refugees passed columns of South Vietnamese troops, with 50 tanks and armored personnel carriers, lined up along a three-mile stretch of Highway 13. A soldier said they were "awaiting orders."

The attacks came a day after a North Vietnamese force overran a military headquarters at Dak Pek, 12 miles south of the Laotian border. There remained no word on the fate of 5,000 civilians at Dak Pek, but a Viet Cong broadcast said 600 South Vietnamese troops in the area were wiped out.

Elsewhere in South Vietnam, widespread fighting was reported from Quang Tri province in the north to the Mekong Delta in the south. Some analysts said the Communist command had stepped up its activity to observe the birthday Sunday of Ho Chi Minh, the late North Vietnamese president and Communist leader.

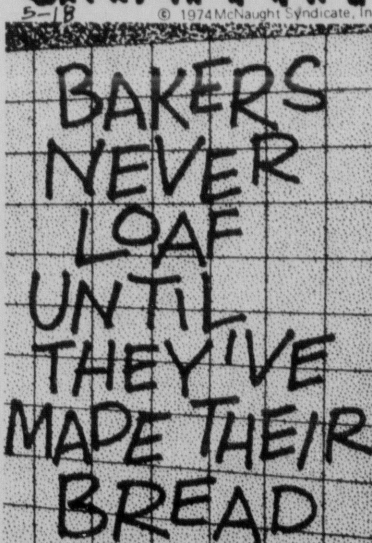

South Vietnamese officers said as many as 2,000 government troops had been brought into the Ben Cat area to reinforce the important town in the heart of the "Iron Triangle." The triangle, in the Saigon River corridor between Cambodia and Saigon, for years has been a major North Vietnamese route for sending men and supplies south.

Today's action was the first time in the long Vietnam war that tanks have been used so close to the capital city, said Lt. Col. Le Trung Hien, chief spokesman for the government military command. But he said the capital was not threatened.

The fall of Ben Cat would isolate Lai Khe just to the north on Highway 13, a major South Vietnamese base and headquarters of the 5th Infantry Division.

Ziegler Blasts Probe Leaks

WASHINGTON (AP) — Leaks of secret House Judiciary Committee evidence violate "the most basic sense of fairness and justice," White House Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler says.

"Certain members of the committee and staff have practiced neither order, nor discipline, nor due process, and the result is that the country is being seriously — and in a calculated way — misled about the facts," Ziegler said Friday in a telephone interview from Key Biscayne, Fla.

Ziegler joined White House lawyer James D. St. Clair in suggesting the committee open its hearings "so that this calculated and piecemeal parceling out of information can be assessed by the country."

After four days of hearings, Chairman Peter W. Rodino Jr., D-N.J., seems determined to keep them closed, at least through next week. The committee has scheduled its next closed meeting for Tuesday.

Ziegler said the leaks "will certainly have a bearing on further decisions about making information available to the committee."

The Judiciary Committee has been told by White House lawyers that it will get a response by Monday to its request for evidence relating to the ITT antitrust settlement and political contributions from the dairy industry. The committee also has subpoenaed 11 additional Watergate tapes for delivery by Wednesday. The White House has said it would not deliver any more Watergate tapes.

Ziegler said Nixon talked Friday at Key Biscayne with key staff aides about committee proceedings but would give no details.

In other Watergate-related developments:

—C. G. "Bebe" Rebozo has a letter from former Commerce Secretary Maurice H. Stans acknowledging receipt of a secret contribution given to Rebozo by the head of the Winn-Dixie food chain, a source said.

The Senate Watergate committee has been investigating $50,000 given to Rebozo in 1972 by A. D. Davis, vice chairman of Winn-Dixie Corp. The Washington Post has reported that the committee had been told the money never reached Nixon's campaign organization.

—The Senate Judiciary Committee postponed hearings on Nixon's nomination of Earl J. Silbert, the original Watergate prosecutor, to be U.S. attorney for the District of Columbia. No explanation was provided for the postponement of the hearings, which had been scheduled to start on Tuesday.

—The former president of a Pennsylvania dairy cooperative, Richard L. Allison, pleaded guilty to consenting to an illegal $50,000 corporate contribution to Nixon's 1972 campaign.

Jumping Jubilee Slated In Calaveras County

ANGELS CAMP, Calif. (AP) — It all started back in California's Gold Rush days, when some miners began betting on whose frog could jump the farthest. Now it's become a sort of froggy olympics.

Organizers say they expect 50,000 people and 3,000 frogs to attend this weekend's Jumping Frog Jubilee, held annually in this hamlet in the Sierra foothills about 100 miles east of San Francisco.

Politicians, particularly in an election year like this one, are always likely to show up.

Gov. Ronald Reagan, who keeps glass jars of jellybeans in his executive suite, has entered a frog called Jellybean VIII.

Lt. Gov. Ed Reinecke, running for the Republican gubernatorial nomination despite an indictment for perjury by the Watergate grand jury, has entered a frog named Jaworski, named after special Watergate special prosecutor Leon Jaworski.

And California Secretary of State Edmund G. Brown Jr., running for the Democratic nomination for governor, has entered a frog named Expletive Deleted.

A woman in a van fired 27 carbine shots at the store front, and a clerk fired three shots as the trio fled in the van, police said. No one was hit.

The trio later abandoned the van and stole three vehicles. They told one of the drivers, "We're from the SLA. We need your car," authorities said.

The trio kidnapped one of the drivers, Thomas D. Matthews, 18, and drove him in his van to a drive-in theatre. Matthews said they apparently planned to meet someone there.

Matthews said he was treated cordially and given food and drink. Later he identified Mrs. Harris as one of his abductors, police said.

He said the trio drove about 15 miles, then left him in the van under a blanket after they apparently commandeered a car.

India Joins Atomic Club

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — India has set off its first nuclear explosion in an underground test, the Indian Atomic Energy Commission announced today. The blast brought the world's largest democracy into the world "nuclear club" heretofore reserved to the major military powers.

The announcement, which did not specify when the explosion occurred, said the bomb was designed for such peaceful purposes as mining and earth-moving. It said India has no intention of producing nuclear weapons.

But the test indicated India may be able to build such weapons in the future if it chooses to do so.

The only nations that now are known to have nuclear weapons are the United States, the Soviet Union, Britain, France and China.

The Indian announcement said the test blast was conducted at a depth of 100 meters — about 328 feet. It did not say where the test took place or give the size of the bomb.

Experts had long suspected that India was on the verge of a nuclear bomb capacity. The consultative committee of the Indian Parliament charged with atomic energy matters was advised last year that Prime Minister Indira Gandhi's government was conducting experiments in the field.

But today's announcement was the first public indication that India had the ability to build and explode a bomb.

Mrs. Gandhi's government has strongly criticized atmospheric nuclear tests, particularly those conducted by China since it joined the nuclear powers in 1964. But India, like France, has refused to sign the nuclear non-proliferation treaty of July 1, 1968.

That pact was pushed by the United States in an effort to prevent the spread of nuclear weapons.

Mrs. Gandhi contended it also had the effect of sealing the nuclear superiority of the United States and of the Soviet Union, which was among 94 countries that signed the pact.

India opened its first atomic power station in January 1970 with American assistance.

North Vietnamese Grab 3 Outposts

BEN CAT, South Vietnam (AP) — North Vietnamese infantry, backed by at least five tanks, overran three government outposts, seized a nearby village and threatened this strategic district town only 25 miles south of Saigon, South Vietnamese field officers said today.

The village that was overrun was An Dien, about half a mile west of Ben Cat. Thousands of civilians caught up in the fighting were seen fleeing southward along highway 13 from Ben Cat and surrounding villages to Phu Cuong, 10 miles away. A Dien's population was 2,000.

The refugees passed columns of South Vietnamese troops, with 50 tanks and armored personnel carriers, lined up along a three-mile stretch of Highway 13. A soldier said they were "awaiting orders."

The attacks came a day after a North Vietnamese force overran a military headquarters at Dak Pek, 12 miles south of the Laotian border. There remained no word on the fate of 5,000 civilians at Dak Pek, but a Viet Cong broadcast said 600 South Vietnamese troops in the area were wiped out.

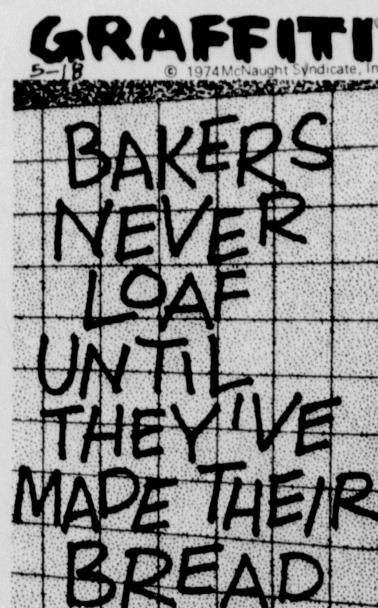

Elsewhere in South Vietnam, widespread fighting was reported from Quang Tri province in the north to the Mekong Delta in the south. Some analysts said the Communist command had stepped up its activity to observe the birthday Sunday of Ho Chi Minh, the late North Vietnamese president and Communist leader.

South Vietnamese officers said as many as 2,000 government troops had been brought into the Ben Cat area to reinforce the important town in the heart of the "Iron Triangle." The triangle, in the Saigon River corridor between Cambodia and Saigon, for years has been a major North Vietnamese route for sending men and supplies south.

Today's action was the first time in the long Vietnam war that tanks have been used so close to the capital city, said Lt. Col. Le Trung Hien, chief spokesman for the government military command. But he said the capital was not threatened.

The fall of Ben Cat would isolate Lai Khe just to the north on Highway 13, a major South Vietnamese base and headquarters of the 5th Infantry Division.

And So It Grows

By GEORGE HAMRICK
County Extension Agent

What do you know about the vegetables you eat?

For one example, globe artichoke is a vegetable product of a thistle-like plant. In ancient Rome, the artichoke was the most expensive of all garden products. The soft, fleshy receptacle of the flower head and the thickened base of the bracts are the edible parts of this plant.

Edible grass? Yes. Asparagus is another highly prized perennial vegetable that is a member of the grass family. Before being used as food, asparagus had a reputation as a medicine for almost anything from the prevention of bee stings to heart trouble, dropsy and toothache. And now it is believed that asparagus, taken in the proper amounts and on a regular basis, is a cure as well as a prevention of cancer.

Asparagus is one of the first vegetables we harvest from our gardens in the spring. The First Century Emperor Augustus described "haste" to his underlings as being "quicker than you can cook asparagus."

How about dandelion greens? Some folks cook and eat the tender leaves of this plant.

There are over 40 different vegetables grown successfully in Ohio fields and gardens. Probably the most popular vegetables grown from the standpoint of taste and easy to prepare are tomatoes, lettuce, white potatoes, white onions, green beans, corn, green peas, cucumbers, carrots, cabbage and green peppers. Most homeowners prefer these over cauliflower, beets, broccoli, Brussels sprouts, spinach, squash and turnips, because these are more difficult to prepare.

This year a record number of "inflation" gardens will be planted, even more than the World War II victory gardens. Polls indicate at least 34 million households will have gardens. That was early this year. By now this number is more like 40 million.

One of the biggest pests of backyard fruits is birds. Cherries, for example, are "for the birds," unless protected. About the only sure way you can save your cherries is to cover them with some sort of netting like nylon, tobacco shade cloth, and mosquito netting. No chemical for spraying cherries, raspberries and other small fruits to prevent bird destruction has been approved, yet.

Some homeowners with only a tree or two have tried hanging pie tins on branches to scare the birds. Others have hung old fur collars in the forks of branches to make birds think the family cat is in the tree. None of these remedies seem to work very well. Your best bet is still the netting cover.

Speaking of birds, Dr. Maurice L. Giltz, professor of Zoology at The Ohio State University, will be teaching a non-credit course in "Familiarization with Birds" this summer. Class will meet from 7-9 p.m., on Wednesdays, from June 19 to July 17.

The course will cover basics in the familiarization with birds and their behavior and ecology. Those interested will learn to identify common birds as well as their songs, nesting habits, and migration patterns. They'll also take bird watching trips.

For registration information, contact the Division of Continuing Education, Non-Credit Courses, Fawcett Center for Tomorrow, 2400 Orlentangy River Road, Columbus, Ohio 43210, phone 422-2947.

If your refrigerator stops running and the food spoils, who pays for it? With today's rising food prices, the food loss could be a minor family catastrophe.

The Major Appliance Consumer Action Panel urges consumers — when buying a refrigerator or freezer — to check warranties and service contracts for this information. This can save grief and money later if there is a refrigerator breakdown and consequently, loss of food through spoilage.

Warranties for refrigerators and freezers may or may not include special provisions for food spoilage due to a defect or malfunction of the appliance during the warranty period. In some cases, the buyer must pay additionally for this particular coverage.

Check for: (1) the amount of payment which can vary considerably; (2) time period allowed for making a claim; (3) length of time the food provision is in effect; (4) any limitation to the original owner only; and (5) what steps must be taken to make a claim.

As you get out that pressure canner, be sure to check it well for small pits in the metal. These are caused by corrosion from salted and cured meats cooked in your canner. If the pits are deep enough in the metal, the pressure canner could explode during processing. The USDA recommends that we do not cook in our pressure canners.

How many calories a day do you need? Here is one USDA method to figure your calorie count. Take your ideal weight (the weight you should be) and divide it in half. For a man, multiply this "half" by 18; for a woman multiply it by 16. The result will be the amount of calories needed by an "average" person of this ideal weight. If you need to lose weight, you will have to eat less than this count, of course.

If you are being sued, at least it should be done in a local court. The Federal Trade Commission filed complaints against four large companies because the companies habitually sue debtors in courts as far as 1000 miles away from the person being sued. This was done even though there were closer courts to the person. The F.T.C. feels this is unfair and deprives people of a reasonable chance to appear, answer and defend.

Maple Bladder Gall Caused By Tiny Mites

MAPLE BLADDER GALLS

By GEORGE HAMRICK
County Extension Agent
Agriculture

Homeowners become alarmed each spring when they discover wart-like growths on the leaves of their maple trees. These warts are maple bladder gall, caused by a tiny mite.

According to George Hamrick, County Extension Agent, these mites seldom, if ever, cause permanent injury to a tree. However, they do detract from the beauty of the leaf and tree, he says. The silver maple grows rapidly and seems to overcome the effects of the mites, he adds.

Once the galls are formed, nothing can be done to rid the leaves of them because they are a part of the leaves. And, since gall mites do not cause any real harm to the tree control measures probably are not needed. This is particularly true on very large trees where the cost of spraying would be expensive. Spraying small trees may be practical to prevent a build up of mites in future years.

Maple bladder gall mites spend the winter as adults under bud scales on the trees. As the buds swell in the early spring, the hibernating adults migrate to the new leaves and puncture the tender tissue as they feed. Galls form at these punctures, providing a place for the mites to feed and reproduce.

Spraying to control mites must be done when they begin feeding on the leaves. Insecticides such as malathion, kelthane, or morestan, used according to directions on the label, will control the pests. Use when leaves are about one-fourth expanded and repeat treatment in 10 days. Spraying after galls have formed is wasteful of insecticide, time and money.

Preserving Hay With Chemicals

By GEORGE HAMRICK
County Extension Agent
Agriculture

Ohio weather is hazardous for making baled, sun-cured hay, particularly during the spring and early summer. Thus, the possibility that chemicals may be used to shorten drying time is very attractive.

As with most new products, some highly exaggerated claims are made, including that hay can be successfully stored at moisture contents of 40 to 50 per cent. Trails conducted in 1973 at the Ohio Agricultural Research and Development Center show that it is not possible to prevent heating of alfalfa hay above 100 degrees F when the moisture in the bale is above 25 per cent.

To be effective, chemical preservatives should inhibit mold growth and prevent temperatures in the hay from exceeding 100 degrees F in order to minimize the loss of nutritive value, especially protein, and maintain the digestibility of the crop. Varying rates of commercial spray-on hay preservative have been tried. Rates of two pounds per ton - recommended use - up to 10 pounds per ton were studied. The higher rate delayed the heating of hay in storage at higher than 25 per cent moisture, but after several days the chemicals appeared to lose their effectiveness and heating and molding occurred. At 25 per cent moisture, the two pounds per ton appeared to be effective in preventing heating of the crop. Below 20 per cent moisture, the hay crop did not heat in storage without preservatives.

How much sooner baling can be started when using a preservative depends on the weather. On a good drying day, it may mean only one hour. Of course if it rains, that can be a long hour. With high humidity, it could mean a day or more.

Hay that is dry enough to bale without a preservative may be put in another now. If unpreserved hay is placed on top of higher moisture hay with preservative, some movement of moisture up into the dry hay may occur, resulting in mold formation.

Propionic acid is an effective mold inhibitor and is contained in most chemical hay preservatives. It is an organic acid and a by-product of petroleum refining. Since it occurs naturally in the digestive process of ruminants, it is safe to feed treated hay to ruminant animals. Unfortunately, there has been very little controlled research on the value of commercially available silage additives. A trial using propionic acid at the rate of 0.4 to 0.6 per cent eight to 12 pounds per ton did reduce the extent of moldy haylage in small silos when ensiled at 50 per cent moisture. Lower levels of application did not sufficiently prevent mold development. So, when you consider silage additives, have the salesman show you data from carefully controlled experiments confirming that the product reduces losses from fermentation or oxidation or improves the quality of the feed in terms of livestock production, compared to untreated silage under the same conditions.

Don't forget that good management plays an important role when making haylage or silage, either with or without a preservative. No harvesting method, storage, or preservative is going to make forage better than it was at cutting. Some losses always occur. The most important factor determining forage quality is the date on which it is cut. The earlier it is cut, the more digestible nutrients per pound. From the time of heading in grasses and budding in legumes, there is a continual decline in the forage digestibility as it matures.

Mineral Oddity

Back in the 1890s, gold prospectors scouring the streams and canyons of the western United States found many other minerals and interesting geological formations, much of which was discarded in the quest for the yellow flash in the pan. In Josephine County, Ore., rocks resembling stainless steel and containing iron, nickel and garnet were noted, probably in disappointment by the prospectors.

But for the last 17 years a local prospector has been gathering the rocks and selling them as oddities to collectors. Eventually a team of Cornell University scientists happened across the ore and became interested when they learned the properties were to be found nowhere else.

After exhausting all possible theories about the origin of the rocks, the team reported to the American Geophysical Union they were left with only one conclusion: the unusual rocks were specimens of Earth's outer molten core brought to the surface many millions of years ago as the present continents were formed through movements in the Earth.

"If we're wrong, somebody else has to come up with a better explanation," said a member of the Cornell team, offering a challenge which could bring a new breed of prospectors to Josephine County.

Weathering The Storm

ON THE LINE
By BOB CONSIDINE

NEW YORK, May 16. — The President as of now has a couple of aces up his sleeve that give him confidence he will ride out this angry storm and complete his term:

1. — Henry Kissinger continues to demonstrate that the Nixon policy of detente with the Soviet Union and China is an historic turn of events which will be in the back of the minds of every man and woman licensed to vote impeachment, banish him from office, send him to prison, or clear him of the assorted charges. Moreover, Kissinger's substantial progress in easing the rasping frictions of the Middle East, will remind the judges of Nixon that in that area of utter hate he has achieved gains his immediate predecessors considered impossible.

2. — If the House impeaches him, which is not at all certain, Nixon is absolutely convinced that he can get the 34 "nay" votes in the Senate trial — the figure he'll need for acquittal. This solid belief, this psychological insurance, is obviously behind his determination not to resign and not to choke in face of the loss of some of his firmest supporters in the GOP and the news media.

Presuming Nixon will not be impeached, cast into exterior darkness or unprecedentedly jailed, surely the least likely fate of all, one tends to guess at what the rest of his second term and the rest of his life will be.

He will work harder (for the sake of his record) to curtail inflation and to put a dent in the unemployment rate. He will do whatever he can to fight the now-expected landslide Democratic victories in the Congress and the states next November. He will have warm things to say about the U.S.-U.S.S.R. joint space mission in 1975, and fly to China to appear at the funeral of either Mao Tse-tung or Chou En-lai. In 1976, the Bicentennial year, he will deliver many endearing tributes to the Founding Fathers and the War of Independence, but recommend to the Congress a large grant to support the British pound.

One of his last acts of office in early January, 1977, will be to promote Gen. Alexander Haig to five stars, announce plans for his library in Whittier, and reveal the publication date of his book, "My 12 Crises." After leaving Washington, he will take up golf again, rejoin the Quakers, and the mellowing years that follow will make him into an elder statesman as they did an even more castigated former President, Herbert Hoover.

Franklin Delano Roosevelt considered two post-fourth-term proposals before his death: editorship of a New York newspaper which his richer friends promised to create for him to air his views, or the post of permanent president of the United Nations Assembly.

Baccalaureate services were held for 140 graduating seniors of Circleville High School. Commencement was still six days away.

Two magazine salesmen cited by police for obtaining money under false pretenses were handed stiff penalties in municipal court. Both Alabama men were sentenced to 15 days in jail, fined $100 and placed on three years probation.

Two Stoutsville men accused of attempting to steal a car were apprehended as they slept under a tree near the Stoutsville Pike.

Ten-year-old Dennis Wood cut the back of his head on a sliding board at the S. Court St. School.

Circleville's Jim Wood won both the 120-yard high and 180-yard low hurdles in the Class AA Central District track meet.

William Stout and Hewitt Cromley were named to head the Pickaway County Democratic party during a reorganizational meeting in the basement of the Elks Lodge. Stout was named Circleville's outstanding young man in 1963 by the Jaycees. Cromley is a Walnut Township farmer.

Trustees of the Pickaway County Community Fund recommended a goal of $38,788 for the 1964 campaign. The figure was established during a quarterly meeting and represents an increase over the 1963 goal of $37,427.

Gilligan Backs Medical Schools

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Gov. John J. Gilligan said today he supports the creation of new state medical schools in northeastern Ohio and at Wright State University in Dayton, "provided they are developed within the context of the statewide system."

Gilligan took issue with a recommendation of his Citizens Task Force on Health Care, which had opposed creation of the two new medical schools.

The governor, in a statement, acknowledged poorly planned medical school development would be "an expensive mistake," and called on the Ohio Board of Regents to map plans for integration of the two schools in a statewide system.

Speaking Of Your Health

by Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

A new and novel approach to the problem of drug addiction is being watched with great interest.

Bruce Wainer, a medical student at the University of Chicago, working with one of his mentors, Dr. Charles R. Schuster, conceived of the idea of immunizing an experimental animal, the Rhesus monkey, against a craving for heroin.

A so-called "vaccine" made from this narcotic was used to diminish the animal's craving for the drug.

The preliminary information derived from this experimental study may hold significant promise.

The danger of insect stings by hornets, wasps and bees is well known. It is estimated that half a million or more people have severe reactions to the venom of these stings each year.

At the State University of New York in Buffalo, and at the Good Samaritan Hospital in Baltimore, a new method of treating allergic reactions to insect stings is being considered.

Dr. Robert E. Reisman and Dr. Martin D. Valentine, allergy specialists, report excellent results with pure honey bee venom which is used to de-sensitize people who are allergic to such stings.

This new method seems to have distinct advantages over those used now.

Coral reefs in the South Pacific are contributing to a new method for treating bones that are damaged in humans.

The tiny marine organisms that create living coral are being considered as a method of bone replacement.

Dr. Eugene White and Dr. Della M. Roy of Pennsylvania State University believe that the fine, honey-combed structure of coral closely resembles the pores in bone.

The great amount of coral available may be a valuable contribution in making artificial bone.

Letters To The Editor

Dear Editor:

Following the tornadoes which hit Pickaway County and Central Ohio on April 3, activities at Red Cross here and throughout the area reached a high point.

The response of people in Circleville and Pickaway County to the needs of their neighbors was overwhelming and inspiring.

From Churches and organizations who took special collections and individuals who came in with their personal checks, to school children who brought contributions which they had collected, an amount of more than $4,000 was received.

These funds provided the immediate assistance needed by those who had lost all their possessions; food, clothing, shelter and medical care. Casework is continuing and needed household goods, minor home repairs and occupational equipment are being supplied for those who do not qualify for government assistance. We are extremely grateful for the money. In addition, many offers of supplies and assistance were made. Due to the fact that so many people made so many offers, not all food and supplies were accepted, since this would have contributed to waste. We are also grateful for the gifts made directly to the Pickaway County families who suffered loss. Because of your kindness and generosity, they are able to return to some semblance of normal living.

We, who are responsible for meeting the needs of people who are the victims of disaster, can only say a sincere "Thank You" to all who helped in so many ways. Without you, Red Cross would not exist.

Dear Editor:

Help is needed if the small county-owned roadside park along State Route 56 three miles northwest of Laurelville is to survive!

In my opinion this park fills a need as a rest-stop for vacationers and travelers who at many times in the year travel to the Hocking Parks in steady traffic streams. Its use has been demonstrated in the 10 years the park has been in existence. It was given to the county by my family and the Pickaway County commissioners have allocated money for mowing but give no other support for its upkeep. The Town and Country Club, a women's group, installed the tables, built the restrooms and have at times repaired them after vandalism.

The restrooms have been stripped of toilet seats at least three times and are completely filthy; the heavy covers to the restroom pit have been torn out repeatedly (the work and expense of replacing them has been borne by the family); boards have been ripped from the building and used as firewood; the trash barrels intended for the use only of people stopping in the park have each week become places where a person or persons sneakily pile their mounds of trash so it will be collected cost-free (this weekly pick-up is not paid for by the public but by a member of the family); the picnic tables are upset 2 or 3 times a year; the trees planted there some at family expense have been run-over and broken by late-night joy-riders. Abuses such as these happen and seem to occur more often as the condition of the place worsens.

As one of the family donors of the park, I am no longer shocked by public misuse of this place. Now I am only saddened and despairing and frustrated by seeing what we believed to be a needed roadside convenience treated as a squalid dump unfit for use.

If anyone reading this letter has workable solutions to the problems or ideas concerning it, will you please write The Herald or make your thoughts public in some other way? If the park is to survive, a plan of regular maintenance has to be found and public support given. If this is not done the park acreage then should cease to be a park and should be reclaimed and returned to private land use. Support of some kind is essential to the future of this small county park.

Patsy Sets New Record For Milk

FAWLER, Ohio (AP)—Patsy, a northeastern Ohio Holstein cow, is well on her way to a place in dairy history.

She just set another record for production of milk and butterfat—yielding 45,280 pounds of milk and 2,194 pounds of butterfat on two milkings a day during the last year.

That translates to 5,327 gallons of milk.

Breezewood Patsy Bar Pontia will be honored at a party Monday given by her owners and breeders, Herman and Henry Gelbke of Vienna in Trumbull County.

The latest is her fifth record of more than 20,000 pounds of milk and her third record of more than 1,000 pounds of fat.

She is presently the junior four-year old national milk and butterfat leader for the Holstein-Friesian Association of America.

Patsy will be honored at the party at the Fowler Methodist Church with an open house following at 1:30 at the Gelbke Brothers farm.

Visitors will hear how Patsy's dam and granddam, also bred and owned by the Gelbkes, were both national production champions.

A Page Of Opinion

Mineral Oddity

Back in the 1890s, gold prospectors scouring the streams and canyons of the western United States found many other minerals and interesting geological formations, much of which was discarded in the quest for the yellow flash in the pan. In Josephine County, Ore., rocks resembling stainless steel and containing iron, nickel and garnet were noted, probably in disappointment by the prospectors.

But for the last 17 years a local prospector has been gathering the rocks and selling them as oddities to collectors. Eventually a team of Cornell University scientists happened across the ore and became interested when they learned the properties were to be found nowhere else.

After exhausting all possible theories about the origin of the rocks, the team reported to the American Geophysical Union they were left with only one conclusion: the unusual rocks were specimens of Earth's outer molten core brought to the surface many millions of years ago as the present continents were formed through movements in the Earth.

"If we're wrong, somebody else has to come up with a better explanation," said a member of the Cornell team, offering a challenge which could bring a new breed of prospectors to Josephine County.

Weathering The Storm

ON THE LINE
By BOB CONSIDINE

NEW YORK, May 16. — The President as of now has a couple of aces up his sleeve that give him confidence he will ride out this angry storm and complete his term:

1. — Henry Kissinger continues to demonstrate that the Nixon policy of détente with the Soviet Union and China is an historic turn of events which will be in the back of the minds of every man and woman licensed to vote impeachment, banish him from office, send him to prison, or clear him of the assorted charges. Moreover, Kissinger's substantial progress in easing the rasping frictions of the Middle East, will remind the judges of Nixon that in that area of utter hate he has achieved gains his immediate predecessors considered impossible.

2. — If the House impeaches him, which is not at all certain, Nixon is absolutely convinced that he can get the 34 "nay" votes in the Senate trial — the figure he'll need for acquittal. This solid belief, this psychological insurance, is obviously behind his determination not to resign and not to choke in face of the loss of some of his firmest supporters in the GOP and the news media.

Presuming Nixon will not be impeached, cast into exterior darkness or unprecedentedly jailed, surely the least likely fate of all, one tends to guess at what the rest of his second term and the rest of his life will be.

He will work harder (for the sake of his record) to curtail inflation and to put a dent in the unemployment rate. He will do whatever he can to fight the now-expected landslide Democratic victories in the Congress and the states next November. He will have warm things to say about the U.S.-U.S.S.R. joint space mission in 1975, and fly to China to appear at the funeral of either Mao Tse-tung or Chou En-lai. In 1976, the Bicentennial year, he will deliver many endearing tributes to the Founding Fathers and the War of Independence, but recommend to the Congress a large grant to support the British pound.

One of his last acts of office in early January, 1977, will be to promote Gen. Alexander Haig to five stars, announce plans for his library in Whittier, and reveal the publication date of his book, "My 12 Crises." After leaving Washington, he will take up golf again, rejoin the Quakers, and the mellowing years that follow will make him into an elder statesman as they did an even more castigated former President, Herbert Hoover.

Franklin Delano Roosevelt considered two post-fourth-term proposals before his death: editorship of a New York newspaper which his richer friends promised to create for him to air his views, or the post of permanent president of the United Nations Assembly.

All Harry Truman wanted to do after he left the White House was to write his book, putter around the Truman Library talking to visiting children, and dandle his grandchildren.

Ike wanted (and did) play golf at Burning Tree, Washington, and have cottages built for him and his friends at the Augusta (Georgia) National and the El Dorado (Calif.) golf courses. He also liked his place at Gettysburg and his herd of Black Angus, both gifts of his friends. He never spent much of his own money. He would drive out of his way to find a gas station that gave Green Stamps.

JFK would have been only 51 when he finished his second term. He had plans for all those years that normally would have lain before him. He wanted to travel extensively, teach certain courses at Harvard, and return to writing, his first love. He might today be, as he approached his 57th birthday come May 29, America's outstanding columnist.

LBJ? Well, he did what came naturally. He took his deluge of papers and photographs to his library, built up his ranch and other holdings, and spent the rest of his days feeling sorry for himself. "They" had brought him down, he was prone to explain. But he could never explain who "they" were.

Business World

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — Despite interest rates so high they haven't been exceeded in this century, corporations seem undeterred in their plans to borrow record amounts of money.

The confrontation of tall spending plans and a short money supply is being blamed for:

—Raising business costs, at least temporarily, which then are passed on as higher prices.

—Drawing funds from the savings or thrift institutions, which reduces the amount of money available for mortgage loans.

—Threatening the economy with a money crunch that could bring some corporations to the brink of disaster and badly impact the expected upturn in the second half of the year.

The latest survey by economists at McGraw-Hill, Inc., indicates that industry intends to spend 19 per cent more than a year ago on improvements to plant and equipment. That would mean a record increase of $19.4 billion to $119.1 billion.

Explained one corporate treasurer, "Any business that has to borrow is convinced it must do so without regard to cost. When you borrow later on, inevitably the dollar is worth less than you have to borrow more for the same results."

Donald Miller, executive vice president of Continental Illinois National Bank, offered this explanation, "Businessmen feel inflation isn't licked. They don't see a recession; orders are good." And so they borrow to expand.

"We're having a veritable explosion of business loans," commented Arthur F. Burns, chairman of the Federal Reserve Board, which has been restraining the money supply in an effort to discourage borrowing. In his view, it must be slowed.

Speaking at a news conference in late April, Burns said:

"We aren't going to sit back and prepare a monetary path to continuation of rapid inflation. On the contrary, we hope to do our part in subduing it. Let there be no mistaking our determination in doing this."

While industry seemingly does mistake that determination, Burns and the Federal Reserve have done little to suggest any change of mind. As they see it, the remarkably high rate of business spending is forcing the economy beyond its ability. It is inflationary; it must be restrained by making spending more difficult.

As business plans for expansion and the Fed's restraint plans appear more and more to be like two express trains racing toward each other, some bankers, economists and businessmen are becoming uneasy. They see a crunch ahead.

$2 Million To Be Paid In Back Pay

WASHINGTON (AP) — In the largest age-discrimination settlement ever reached, a division of Standard Oil Company of California will pay $2 million in back wages to 160 middle-aged workers, the Labor Department says.

A consent decree embracing the settlement between Standard's Western Operations Inc. and the department was entered Thursday in U.S. District Court at San Francisco. The government had charged Western Operations with violating the 1967 Age Discrimination in Employment Act, which forbids the discharge of persons between 40 and 65 years old for reasons of age.

In the settlement, the firm did not admit violating the law, but agreed to rehire 120 employees dismissed between Dec. 1, 1970 and Dec. 31, 1973 and give them back pay ranging from less than $10,000 to more than $50,000. Labor Secretary Peter J. Brennan told reporters that the settlement was "a giant step toward justice for all American workers."

The largest previous settlement under the 1967 act was a $250,000 payment by Pan American World Airways in 1972 to 29 employees over 59 years of age.

BIGDOME OUTFITTED HIS COMPANY TEAM IN THE BEST UNIFORMS POSSIBLE...

4-H...People Helping People

By STEVEN BARTELS
County Extension Agent, 4-H

With all we hear about pollution and how it affects ecology — fighting pollution may well be society's most popular and vital concern. Or, there may be no society ... no future generations.

We must stop polluting our air, land and water. Each of us must help keep these natural resources that are so vital to life on this planet. Man is not an island unto himself. To survive, he must have fresh air to breathe, productive land on which to grow food and fiber, pure water to drink and be surrounded by other living plants and animals.

Because we all like the better things in life, many of our actions, desires and demands have added greatly to the pollution of our environment. Ours is a mobile society - most of us have our own set of "wheels." We like to eat well and have foods of excellent quality. We prefer to have year-round, well-lighted comfortable homes and places to work plus our share of the many modern conveniences no one heard of a few years ago. Actually these, and many other needs, have added large amounts of pollutants. Indirectly, if not directly, each of us has contributed his or her share, too.

Now we must act. Act singly as individuals, as groups and in teams and as communities to fight pollution. No task is too small ... none too big. Every "litter bit" helps whether it's picking up trash along the highway or cleaning out the nearby stream; by not burning leaves; not wasting water or electricity; properly disposing of animal wastes, slowing down water runoff to save soil, or by providing a better environment for fish and wildlife.

Sound familiar? Yes, because many anti-pollution campaigns and activities are just good conservation practices.

Now's your opportunity to join forces against pollution. Act now! Become a concerned conservation person or club.

Name a conservation committee in your club and organize for action. Survey your community for pollution problems and determine conservation practices needed. Decide on projects or activities your club can do to help control air or water pollution and soil erosion.

Now is the time to enlist the aid of the community. Involve everyone. Small projects can soon grow into big ones. You'll need all the help you can get. Ask 4-H and other youth group members, parents and leaders, bankers, and other businessmen, civic leaders, teachers, conservation district members.

Find out who in your community is concerned about pollution. Ask the support of local governmental officials, police, firemen, sanitary engineers, members of the Chamber of Commerce and civic groups, representatives of local industries, newspapers, radio and television station personnel.

Involve conservation specialists, biology teachers, chemists, farmers, feed and fertilizer dealers, scavenger company representatives, other businessmen, landowners, members of sportsmen, gardening and bird watching clubs.

Once a survey has been made in your community, the various problems identified and some possible solutions discussed, it is time for commitment.

Organize everyone interested in the community and move forward on specific projects. Start with small ones where immediate results can be seen and then move into larger projects. Publicize your actions and accomplishments with before and after pictures and stories on radio, television and in the newspapers.

Awareness and education of the public is important. It does no good to clean up roadsides, if the public is going to go out and continue to throw trash out and re-pollute an area that has been cleaned up.

Dear Abby:

By Abigail Van Buren

Widower Being Pestered To Death

DEAR ABBY: I have been a widower only ten months, and all I want is to be left alone. I am constantly pestered by widows, divorcees and wives whose husbands don't pay any attention to them. Also, people with the "have-I-got-a-girl-for-you!" routine. You wouldn't believe the propositions I get. When I try to bow out politely, they say: "What's the matter, are you some kind of queer?"

Last week a young neighbor from across the street came over with a pie and a story about how lonely she was with her kids in school all day and her husband on the road. Then came the proposition. I finally had to ask her to leave.

This morning while taking a shower I heard someone breaking through my front door. It was the lady next door. She said she'd looked through my bathroom window, and I looked like maybe I wasn't feeling well so she came over to see if there was anything she could do for me. I had a terrible time trying to get rid of her. After that, I pulled down my shades and bolted my door. I'm a prisoner in my own house! I even put a sign up on my front door, "Were you invited?" But everyone thinks I mean somebody else.

I am not particularly goodlooking. I try not to hurt anyone's feelings, but I don't want anyone pestering me. What should I do?

NO NAME OR ADDRESS

DEAR NO: You've put out a sign, bolted your door, and given no one the slightest encouragement. All that's left is a watchdog and a barbed wire fence.

DEAR ABBY: I am 49 and going through my menopause. I have hounded my gynecologist for help, but I can't get any satisfaction from him, so I'm asking you. How can I be absolutely sure I won't get pregnant? (I have three grandchildren!)

My husband is 50, and we're not sex maniacs or anything like that but we do get together once in a while, and I am living in fear that I'll find myself pregnant with a change of life baby. I have told my doctor that and he said: "Don't worry-women your age seldom get pregnant." Abby, I don't want to take any chances, but my doctor says I don't need to take any precautions.

Is he right? Am I foolish to be concerned? Can you recommend something to ease my mind?

NEEDS ADVICE

DEAR NEEDS: You need more than advice. You need another doctor. Even though the chances of your becoming pregnant are small, it's possible! I don't blame you for wanting to be absolutely sure. If you don't know another gynecologist, your Planned Parenthood Clinic can give you competent medical advice and recommend the most ideal method of contraceptive for a woman your age. Good luck.

DEAR ABBY: In my work I deal with the public. My supervisor told me that the use of words "ma'am" and "sir" is not proper-that a simple "thank you" "yes" or "no" is sufficient.

He insists that when one uses "ma'am" and "sir" he implies that he is socially beneath the person he is speaking to.

Is my supervisor correct? I don't share his views.

NORTH CAROLINA

DEAR NORTH: I don't share his views either. But customs vary in different parts of the country. In Iowa, where I grew up, "ma'am" and "sir" were used to show respect and had nothing to do with one's social position.

Patrol Takes Position On Solicitations

Columbus, Ohio — Colonel Robert M. Chiaramonte, Superintendent of the State Highway Patrol, again restated the position of the Patrol in regard to solicitations for advertising space in a law enforcement publication. He said, "The Patrol does not, nor has it ever, sanctioned solicitations for advertising in any publication."

The statement comes after repeated complaints have been received that representatives of a purported law enforcement publication are contacting Ohio businessmen, advising that State Highway Patrolmen will benefit from the purchase of advertising space. "Whether by inference or otherwise, this is definitely a misrepresentation," said the Colonel. "Ohio Highway Patrolmen receive no benefits from the publication, nor would any be accepted if offered."

Declining to name the publication, Colonel Chiaramonte repeated his prior advice that any businessmen receiving such solicitations should check with their local police or sheriff's department or a Patrol Post before contracting for advertising space of this type.

4-H...People Helping People

By STEVEN BARTELS
County Extension Agent, 4-H

With all we hear about pollution and how it affects ecology — fighting pollution may well be society's most popular and vital concern. Or, there may be no society ... no future generations.

We must stop polluting our air, land and water. Each of us must help keep these natural resources that are so vital to life on this planet. Man is not an island unto himself. To survive, he must have fresh air to breathe, productive land on which to grow food and fiber, pure water to drink and be surrounded by other living plants and animals.

Because we all like the better things in life, many of our actions, desires and demands have added greatly to the pollution of our environment. Ours is a mobile society — most of us have our own set of "wheels." We like to eat well and have foods of excellent quality. We prefer to have year-round, well-lighted comfortable homes and places to work plus our share of the many modern conveniences no one heard of a few years ago. Actually these, and many other needs, have added large amounts of pollutants. Indirectly, if not directly, each of us has contributed his or her share, too.

Now we must act. Act singly as individuals, as groups and in teams and as communities to fight pollution. No task is too small ... none too big. Every "litter bit" helps whether it's picking up trash along the highway or cleaning out the nearby stream; by not burning leaves; not wasting water or electricity; properly disposing of animal wastes, slowing down water runoff to save soil, or by providing a better environment for fish and wildlife.

Sound familiar? Yes, because many anti-pollution campaigns and activities are just good conservation practices.

Now's your opportunity to join forces against pollution. Act now! Become a concerned conservation person or club.

Name a conservation committee in your club and organize for action. Survey your community for pollution problems and determine conservation practices needed. Decide on projects or activities your club can do to help control air or water pollution and soil erosion.

Now is the time to enlist the aid of the community. Involve everyone. Small projects can soon grow into big ones. You'll need all the help you can get. Ask 4-H and other youth group members, parents and leaders, bankers, and other businessmen, civic leaders, teachers, conservation district members.

Find out who in your community is concerned about pollution. Ask the support of local governmental officials, police, firemen, sanitary engineers, members of the Chamber of Commerce and civic groups, representatives of local industries, newspapers, radio and television station personnel.

Involve conservation specialists, biology teachers, chemists, farmers, feed and fertilizer dealers, scavenger company representatives, other businessmen, landowners, members of sportsmen, gardening and bird watching clubs.

Once a survey has been made in your community, the various problems identified and some possible solutions discussed, it is time for commitment.

Organize everyone interested in the community and move forward on specific projects. Start with small ones where immediate results can be seen and then move into larger projects. Publicize your actions and accomplishments with before and after pictures and stories on radio, television and in the newspapers.

Awareness and education of the public is important. It does no good to clean up roadsides, if the public is going to go out and continue to throw trash out and re-pollute an area that has been cleaned up.

Ready KOs Braves In Thriller

Logan Elm, scrapping all the way, lost to Columbus Bishop Ready 3-2 Friday in the Central District Class AA finals.

A two-run homer by Jeff Reichelderfer in the fifth inning had given the Braves a 2-1 advantage before Ready tallied twice in the bottom of the fifth to ice the game.

After a scoreless first inning, Ready got its first run in the second. Mike Ciccone led off with a single, was advanced to third on a single by Jim Shea, and scored on a sacrifice fly by winning pitcher Ray McDonald.

In the top of the fifth, Greg Justus cracked a lead-off single and scored when Reichelderfer sent the ball 310 feet over the left field fence.

But it was a short-lived lead.

In the home half of the fifth, Tom Heffernan singled, was sacrificed to second, and tied the game on a single by Rich Ciccone.

Ready won the game when Ciccone was balked to second and scored on a single by Rich Reis.

The Braves threatened in the sixth and seventh frames but could not score.

Winning pitcher McDonald allowed the Braves seven hits. He walked four and fanned two.

Derek Morris took the loss for Logan Elm, allowing eight singles. He walked two and struck out three.

Both teams played errorless ball.

Besides Reichelderfer's homer, Braves getting hits were Greg Justus, Scott Pontius, Mark Justus, Derek Morris, Randy Pontius, and Rob Black.

"We'll be back," said head Coach Vic Pontius. "This was a rebuilding year for our team, and the boys just played great ball."

The Braves will lose two seniors to graduation.

Logan Elm has been to Newark three of the last four years, winning two sectional and district runner-up titles.

The Braves, now 14-5 on the year, will play a league make-up game with Liberty Union next week.

CHS Golf Team Finishes 2nd In District

AWARD—Mark Justus, four-year starter and letterman for the Logan Elm Braves, is congratulated by Central District Class AA tournament director Jack Moore.

Mike Neal Reins Winner At Scioto

Oaklawn Knight, a 5-year-old gelding owned by Robert F. Burton, Stoutsville, and Harold R. Nagel, Route 4, won the fourth race at Scioto Downs Friday, pacing the mile in 2:11.3.

Driven by Ronald (Mike) Neal of Circleville, the mutual return was $11.20, $7 and $4.60. Combining with Linworth Tim, owned and driven by Jim Arledge of Circleville, the two made up the fourth race quinella paying $60.60.

Linworth Time paid $7 to place and $5.20 to show.

In the seventh race, Neal again figured in the quinella wagering, driving Arch Berry to a second place finish. Dancing Daphne was the winning half of the quinella which paid $67.20.

Albert Kerns of Stoutsville reined his own King Storm to a third place finish in the Capt. Eddie Rickenbaker Trophy race, a free for all trot. He paid $4.40 to show. The race was won by Keystone Mite, owned by Mr. and Mrs. Johns of Wooster and driven by Thadeous McRae Jr.

Attendance at the opening night at Scioto was 8,348 and the mutual handle was $429,469. It rained.

Miami, BGSU Lead Spring Sports

KENT, Ohio (AP)—Miami of Ohio already owned the tennis title and nursed a three-shot golf lead heading into the final competition today of the 1974 Mid-American Conference spring sports carnival.

Meanwhile, Bowling Green seized the lead with 29 points Friday in the three-day track meet at Kent State.

The Circleville High School golf team finished second in the Central District Class AA tournament held at Marysville Country Club.

The Tiger golfers shot 328 total compared to 316 for Watterson, a 12-stroke difference. Last year Watterson won the Central District at Pine Hills by nine strokes with Circleville finishing second.

For Circleville Terry Spellacy was medalist with 38-40-78. Jeff Spires shot 38-43-81, Mark McFadden 38-45-83, Jeff Bohenko 46-40-86 and Jim England 45-42-87.

Watterson's Russ Stillwagon was medalist for the tournament, with 37-37-74.

"Their watering system was broken and the greens were hard and very dry. The balls would not stick on the greens on all approach shots," Circleville High School coach Steve Brudzinski reported.

"I thought our boys did very well for the conditions. All spring they were pitching for the pin on soft greens. Yesterday they had to play pitch and run shots with the pin placement in very difficult spots, usually behind a trap with very little green to work with," Brudzinski said.

Spellacy, the only senior on the CHS squad, parred 12 of the 18 holes with his round. Spires had seven pars and two birds. McFadden's 83 was his best round of the year.

"We had the Watterson coach a little worried after the first nine holes. His team had 152, our team had three boys with 38 for 159," the CHS golf coach noted.

Lance Rentzel Reinstated

NEW YORK (AP)—After spending 10 months in the shadows of professional football, Lance Rentzel was reinstated Friday by National Football League Commissioner Pete Rozelle.

"I just can't tell you how happy I feel," Rentzel said in Los Angeles after learning that Rozelle had okayed his return. "A lot has changed in my life the past 10 months."

Chief Dean Victor In Lebanon Feature

LEBANON, Ohio (AP)—Chief Dean outran Clever Victory in the stretch to take the $2,500 featured ninth race trotting mile at Lebanon Raceway in 2:10 2-5 Friday night by half a length.

Tiger 5-Run Rally Nips Chillicothe

Mark Scherer, batting for the second time in the final inning, drove in the winning run as Circleville came from behind to nip Chillicothe 8-7 Friday on the Tiger diamond.

Circleville tallied five times in the bottom of the seventh inning for the win.

Both teams scored single runs in the second inning and Chillicothe tallied twice in the third. The Tigers managed one run and trailed 3-2 going into the fifth inning when a Tiger run tied it.

Chillicothe scored in the sixth for a one-run lead and tallied three times in the seventh.

Brent Mancini started for the Tigers and was lifted in the sixth inning for Robin Ott who gained the win.

Mancini allowed seven hits, walked five, and fanned six. Ott, who blanked Chillicothe, walked a batter.

Booker took the loss for Chillicothe, allowing 11 hits. He walked five and fanned five.

Biff Bumgarner banged a triple and two singles for the Tigers, Rock Davis had a double and two singles, Scherer cracked out three singles, and Randy Thomas collected two hits.

The win puts the Tigers over the .500 mark for the year with a 10-9 season mark. Chillicothe drops to 11-11.

The Tigers are scheduled to host Hillsboro today at 1:30 p.m.

Sports Briefs

BALTIMORE (AP)—The painting of the Pimlico weathervane, a Preakness tradition whose origin stumps even trivia experts, will be continued today after the 99th running of the Triple Crown classic.

Tom Ennis, a member of the track's maintenance staff, will climb atop the replica of the old members' clubhouse before the race is run, and take along an assortment of paints.

As soon as the result is official, Ennis will paint the winning owner's colors on the blouse of the jockey aboard the horse which stands on the weathervane.

INDIANAPOLIS (AP)—Veteran A.J. Foyt looked like a good bet to hang onto the pole position for the Indianapolis 500 today. The 1973 winner, Gordon Johncock, admitted as much after a vital practice session was rained out Friday.

The forecast for the final scheduled day of qualifications included a 50 per cent chance of more rain.

Your Horoscope

By FRANCIS DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

FOR SUNDAY

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 20): Be patient if things don't go quite according to plan. An unforeseen, but necessary, alteration in your program could prove quite beneficial in the long run.

TAURUS (Apr. 21 to May 21): Stellar influences new activities, intriguing experiences and the imaginative revitalization of all interests. Enjoy your day!

GEMINI (May 22 to June 21): A relatively smooth period—once you get the gist of trends and go ahead at a steady tempo. Personal relationships and outdoor pursuits highly favored.

CANCER (June 22 to July 23): Don't let emotions dictate your actions—a tendency now. In all situations, face facts and be realistic.

LEO (July 24 to Aug. 23): Go about your affairs with zeal and confidence since there is little likelihood of difficulty. Be guided by past experience, however.

VIRGO (Aug. 24 to Sept. 23): A splendid day for innovations and experimentation. Don't hesitate to pioneer in new fields, and with new methods.

LIBRA (Sept. 24 to Oct. 23): Some good news or friendly cooperation should aid you in perfecting long-range plans. Study new trends, developments.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 to Nov. 22): Here is a spot for you to outpoint those who are careless or who do not reckon with contingencies. A great day in which to display your ingenuity.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23 to Dec. 21): Mixed influences. Special care needed in experimentation, hastily contrived messages and writings; also travel.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20): Don't overplay your hand, but stay in there pitching with the best of them. The right balance and careful decisions can bring top results soon.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19): A pleasant surprise indicated—possibly the settlement of a long-standing obligation. Artistic pursuits and romance especially favored now.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20): Planetary influences stimulate inspirational ideas, intuition, inventiveness. Capitalize on your talents—even latent ones.

YOU BORN TODAY are extremely sensitive, affectionate and home loving. Innately serious-minded, you make an excellent scholar and teacher; could also excel in science where your inherent studiousness, coupled with an inborn curiosity, would be a tremendous asset. You are fond of the active life, but have a strong tendency toward the conservative and traditional. In the choice of a career, many fields are open to you notably: writing, the law, medicine or the theater—especially as manager or director. If, as many Taureans, you have been endowed with a good voice, be sure to cultivate it, since it could lead to almost exalted success. Any branch of the communications media would also be an excellent outlet for your talents. Birthdate of: Nellie Melba, world-famous opera singer.

See Record Number Of Parks Visitors

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)— Ohio Natural Resources Director William Nye believes state parks, getting a boost from the energy crisis, will have a record number of visitors this year. "Ohioans will be looking to satisfy their recreation needs at facilities close to home, places they can get to and back on a tank of gas," Nye said. "I believe that more Ohioans will be visiting more Ohio parks this year than ever before."

The parks registered 40,447,179 visitors last year. In preparation for the busy season, a seven-man team of department officials will be checking the readiness of the parks next week.

Nye personally will kick off "readiness week" by inspecting Kiser Lake State Park in Champaign County, John Bryan State Park in Greene County and Madison Lake State Park in Madison County Tuesday.

Meanwhile, Nye said Friday the department is considering a proposed long-range development plan for Kelley's Island State Park. He said a consulting firm prepared a master plan which suggests a lodge, two golf courses, cabins and additional camping facilities at a cost of $16 million to $20 million.

Implementation is at least six years away, Nye said. He noted the plan must be approved by the department and island residents and the money allocated before any of the plan could be put into effect.

The department commissioned the plan after receiving a $1.2 million appropriation from the legislature last year to buy and develop additional land for the 650-acre park.

So far, 150 acres have been acquired, and natural resources department officials plan to buy about 1,000 more with the money, Nye said.

The park now offers swimming and camping facilities, hiking and nature areas.

Ban On High-Tar Cigarettes Nixed

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. Consumer Product Safety Commission has voted 3 to 2 that it cannot ban high-tar cigarettes under the 1960 Hazardous Substances Act.

The ban had been sought in a petition filed Feb. 1 by Sen. Frank E. Moss, D-Utah and the American Public Health Association.

The possibility of the ban had been raised last August by Richard O. Simpson, commission chairman. Simpson had said it was an open question whether the commission could act against cigarettes under the hazardous substances act, despite the specific exclusion of tobacco products by the Consumer Product Safety Act, which set up the commission a year ago.

Action on Smoking and Health, a Washington-based anti-smoking group, termed the commission decision "incorrect and premature."

"Taking such precipitous action on a vital matter affecting the public health without benefit of a public hearing was contrary to established administrative procedure and a very bad omen for consumers relying on the commission," said John Banzhaf, director

Apartments Boarded Up

MIDDLETOWN, Ohio (AP) — The fire department has ordered a 56-unit apartment complex purchased for public housing a year ago but never used, boarded up.

The Butler Metropolitan Housing Authority purchased the project called "Midtonia" in August, 1972 for $650,000 and relocated families living there.

Middletown Prosecutor Jerry Bryant Friday said he advised the fire department action "because, in my opinion, the condition of the property is in violation of state law."

He said the issue could go to court unless housing officials complied with the order in 30 days.

"We are making them board it up because we believe it is a fire hazard," said Fire Chief Victor Auvi, who said the housing authority had ignored an earlier order.

Police have reported numerous acts of vandalism in the project, including a number of fires started by vandals.

Man Acquitted In Slaying Case

HAMILTON, Ohio (AP) — Butler County Common Pleas Judge Fred Cramer Friday ordered a directed verdict of acquittal against Victor Mills, 27, Hamilton, charged with second-degree murder.

Mills was charged in the shooting death last August of Logan Marlow, 25, Ross, behind the Grand Hotel.

The judge said there was insufficient evidence.

of the group.

He said his group probably will ask the commission to reconsider its decision and hold a public hearing.

Simpson's statement last year had brought down a stream of criticism from tobacco state legislators including Sen. Sam J. Ervin Jr., D-N.C., who sought an opinion on a possible ban from the General Accounting Office.

It responded that "an outright ban on high-tar cigarettes involves a major policy decision which the Congress has not delegated to any regulatory agency."

The petition had requested that all cigarettes containing 22 milligrams or more of tar be banned as hazardous substances. This would have included 27 brands accounting for 15 per cent of the cigarettes sold annually.

Alliance Fire Loss Heavy

ALLIANCE, Ohio (AP)—Alliance Fire Chief Carl Held says damage could run as high as $2 million from a fire that swept through the Morgan Engineering Co. plant here early today.

Five men inside the plant when the fire broke out escaped uninjured, but one fireman was hospitalized for observation with minor injuries.

The company, which manufactures cranes and other heavy equipment, is located on the city's east side. The firm employs about 100.

The fire broke out shortly after midnight and firemen from both the Alliance and Sebring departments fought the blaze.

No cause was immediately determined.

Consolidation Of Agencies Being Pushed

WASHINGTON (AP) — A controversial plan by the Agriculture Department to consolidate field offices of four major agencies into "service centers" to give farmers one-stop service is proceeding on target, officials say.

The plan was announced Nov. 21 and immediately drew protests from many members of Congress and local officials that it would result in USDA offices being closed in many counties.

Although department officials concede some counties will not have full service centers representing all agencies, they say the plan will not mean widespread abandonment of existing offices.

Joseph R. Wright Jr., assistant secretary of agriculture for administration, said rumors that the consolidation plan had been abandoned were not true. But there have been problems in getting full-scale consolidation plans approved at the state level, he told a reporter.

As a result, Wright said, state administrative committees have been asked to submit consolidation plans for counties that already have been agreed upon, meaning that "the more difficult cases" will be worked out later.

Consolidation of county field offices in the USDA network has been going on for many years. But the service center concept announced last fall served notice that consolidation would be undertaken on a broad scale, with no county immune to the possibility of having some of its facilities combined with those in others.

Man Hurt In Truck, VW Crash

A West Baden, Indiana man, 25-year-old William Tucker, was admitted to Berger Hospital for treatment of a concussion and leg, hand, and head injuries after he drove his Volkswagen into the path of a pickup truck on E. Mill St. Friday at 10:27 a.m.

According to police, Tucker was driving north on Washington St. when the truck, driven by Scott C. Clum, 22, Greenville, pulled from the stop sign on E. Mill St.

The VW hit the truck broadside. It was demolished.

Tucker was pinned in the small auto and had to be removed by emergency personnel.

Police charged Clum, who was driving a truck owned by Richard Baker, Greenville, with failing to yield the right of way from a stop sign. He was not hurt.

Ohio Could Get Job Training Cash

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U. S. Department of Labor reports Ohio could get $64.4 million in job training money if Congress approves recommendations from the agency's head, Peter J. Brennan.

Brennan said in a statement that Ohio would get $58.2 million for fiscal 1975 for classroom and on-the-job work training, job counseling and placement.

The state would get another $6.2 million for public service jobs in areas of high unemployment, he said.

Brennan said the Ohio money is part of $1.5 billion recommended by the labor department for release to the 50 states and 350 local governments.

The state would get another $6.2 million for public service jobs in areas of high unemployment, he said.

Week's Docket Includes 9 Neglected Children

Nine neglected children were brought before Juvenile Court authorities this past week. The week's docket also included cases against six delinquent youths and one traffic offender.

The eight children of a Route 1, Orient family were placed in the temporary care of Pickaway County Children's Services while charges against the parents are pending. A second case of neglect involved a nine-month-old Circleville boy who was ordered into the emergency care of the Children's Services.

Two cases were dismissed after the youths involved have served their probation. Seventeen-year-old Monique Jacobs, Route 5, was found not guilty by Judge Guy G. Cline on a charge of failing to maintain assured clear distance ahead and causing an accident.

The court granted consent for a 16-year-old girl and a 17-year-old boy to marry.

A case against a 20-year-old Ashville boy was dismissed. The boy had originally been charged with disturbing the peace.

School truancy charges were heard against five youths. A 17-year-old

Route 2 boy was continued on probation for the offense and was ordered by the court to seek outpatient treatment at the Scioto Valley Guidance Center.

Probation was discontinued when a 16-year-old Route 2, Orient girl was released after she had been placed on probation for missing school. The case was terminated because the girl is presently married and attending school out of the county.

A 16-year-old Circleville boy was ordered into detention for three days and continued on probation for violating his probation rules by being truant from school.

Similar charges were filed against a 14-year-old Route 1, Williamsport boy. The boy was sentenced to the Ohio Youth Commission but the court ordered the sentence held for 60 days while he is placed in the temporary care of the Children's Services.

One day's detention was the sentence for a 15-year-old Circleville boy found by the court to have violated his probation by being truant from school. The youth was also continued on his probationary terms.

A 14-year-old Circleville girl was placed on probation for school truancy. School truancy charges were dismissed against a 15-year-old Route 2, Ashville boy.

The court dismissed a case against Michael Pettibone, Ashville. Pettibone, an adult, was charged with assaulting a minor. The court deemed administrative action by the authorities at Teays Valley High School adequate punishment for the offense.
